(a) The ordinary surplus is ample to meet the charges of the proposed loan

(b) When the capital works under contemplation are provided for by the proposed loan, it is intended to effect an immediate reduction of taxation to the extent of about Rs 32,000 per year Even if the proved surplus of a lakh were to disappear, reimposition of taxes at the present rate would yield enough to liquidate the entire loan

The taxes mentioned in column 12 are levied at the following rates —

	Per cent
Holding tax	9	on the annual valuation
Water rate	3¾	ditto
Lighting rate	3	ditto
Latrine rate	8	ditto of 1st hundred
	3	ditto of 2nd hundred
	2	ditto of 3rd to 6th hundred
	3½	ditto above 6th hundred

(c) Statement of outstanding loans is appended hereto

(d) The figures in the loan applications have been carefully analysed in order to show nothing but strictly normal income and expenditure under normal heads

Thus although there have been heavy excess receipts due to arrear collection all collections (a) over 98 per cent of taxes and electric dues and (b) over 90 per cent of property demand have been excluded and shown as abnormal income

Bills introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council, Reports of Select Committees presented or to be presented to that Council, and Bills published before introduction in that Council.

BENGAL LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION

No 294L C—11th January, 1935—In pursuance of the provisions of rule 20 of the Bengal Legislative Council Rules, 1920, the following Bill which was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 14th December, 1934, is hereby published for general information together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed thereto

THE BENGAL TENANCY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1934.

A

further to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885

WHEREAS it is necessary further to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act of 1885 as amended by the amending Bengal Act IV of 1928 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act) in the manner hereinafter appearing — VIII of 1885

AND WHEREAS the previous sanction of the Governor General has been obtained under sub section (3) of the section 80A of the Government of India Act to the passing of this Act, — 5 and 6 Geo V, c 61, 6 and 7 Geo V, c 37, 9 and 10 Geo V, c 101

It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title. — 1 This act may be called the Bengal Tenancy (Amendment) Act, 1934

Commencement — 2 This Act shall come into force on the day on which it is published in the Calcutta Gazette

Application of Act — 3 This Act shall apply wherever the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, as amended by the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act, 1928, applies

Amendment of section 48C — 4 In section 48C of the said Act the following words will be added at the end of sub clause (2) of clause (i) of the proviso, viz, "irrespective of whether or not the tenancy has terminated by expiry of the term, or it has been determined by notice, or the suit for ejectment has been instituted before or after the commencement of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act, IV of 1928"

Amendment of section 109 — 5 In section 109 of the said Act the following words will be added at the end of clause (a) of the proviso, viz, "irrespective of whether or not such application or suit was filed or instituted, or the same was finally disposed of before or after the commencement of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act, IV of 1928"

Amendment of section 158A — 6 In section 158A the following proviso will be added at the end of clause (1), viz, "provided that in any area for which a record of rights has not yet been prepared or finally published the landlord, if he be a proprietor or permanent tenure holder, may also so apply for the application of the procedure provided by the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913, in cases where the rent is secured by registered lease containing all necessary particulars of the tenancy such as are required by clause (b) of section 148 and section 162 of this Act — Ben Act III of 1913

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Section 48C requires an amendment to make clear the intention of the Legislature to give the under raiyat the benefit of the protection now afforded by the proviso in all cases not yet finally decided including cases now pending in the original court or in a court of appeal or cases not yet instituted where notice was given under the old section 49 of the Bengal Tenancy Act This has been rendered necessary by reason of the decision of a Special Bench of the Calcutta High Court reported in 37 C W N 689, on a difference of opinion between two other Judges of the said court

The amendment of section 109 is equally urgent and imperative to make clear a similar intention of the Legislature to apply the proviso in all cases not yet finally decided including cases pending either in the original court or in a court of appeal or cases not yet instituted, for it may be a question open to some doubt as to whether the Legislature intended to disturb rights that might be said to have already accrued under the old section 109 by reason of a final disposal even by default or withdrawal of an application or suit before the commencement of the Amending Act (Vide 35 C W N 1147)

The proposed amendment of section 158A is to facilitate recovery of rents and cesses by proprietors and permanent tenure holders so as to enable them to pay up in time the land revenue or cess of putni rents which are recoverable by summary processes The information afforded by a record of rights could also be had with equal if not greater safety in cases secured by a registered lease containing all necessary particulars

No 295L C —11th January, 1935 —In pursuance of the provisions of rule 20 of the Bengal Legislative Council Rules, 1920, the following Bill which was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 14th December, 1934, is hereby published for general information together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed thereto

THE BENGAL TENANCY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1934.

A

further to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, in the manner hereinafter appearing, VIII of 1885

AND WHEREAS the previous sanction of the Governor General has been obtained under sub section (3) of section 80A of the Government of India Act to the passing of this Act, 5 and 6 Geo V, c 61, 6 and 7 Geo V, c 37, 9 and 10 Geo V, c 101

It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called the Bengal Tenancy (Amendment) Act, 1934

2 It shall come into force at once

3 After section 148, clause (h), the following be added as clause (h1) —

"No fresh appointment of any natural or Court guardian would be necessary in execution cases arising out of the original suits where guardian has already been appointed"

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

After amendment of Act VIII of 1885 in the year 1928 some inconvenience is experienced in execution cases Some Courts in the mufassal insist upon the appointment of fresh natural guardian or Court guardian for the minors in execution cases as a result whereof poor tenants are unnecessarily saddled with costs for the same and delay is caused in the disposal of execution cases Objects of this amending Bill is to remove that difficulty for the benefit of the poor tenant judgment debtors

THE BENGAL FERRIES (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1934.

to amend the Bengal Ferries Act, 1885

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bengal Ferries Act, 1885, in the manner hereinafter appearing,

It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called the Bengal Ferries (Amendment) Act, 1934

Extent and commencement

2 It extends to the whole of Bengal

And it shall come into force at once

Amendment of section 9 of Ben Act I of 1885

3 At the end of section 9 of the Bengal Ferries Act, 1885, the words "provided such term shall not exceed three years" shall be added

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of this short amendment is to fix the maximum limit to the period to which a ferry should be leased In some places the ferries are leased to farmers for long periods, namely, 10 to 15 years In the district of Mymensingh the first class ferries have been leased for 15 years and the second class ferries have been leased for 10 years to a very rich ferry farmer A great deal of exaction and exploitation is committed by these long termed ferry farmers upon the ignorant and helpless passengers during this long period in respect of ferry charges to be realised on goods and conveyances such as dulis, carts and palanquins, etc Monopoly of any trade is harmful to the best interest of people at large It is also financially injurious to the best interest of District Boards themselves This power of granting long lease has been instrumental to scaring away the small farmers making rooms for only big ones with big purses

Another reason for this amendment is that a Board should not be allowed to tie the hands of its successor in respect of the management of the Board's finance This practice of allowing one Board to forestall the actions of a succeeding Board is bound to interfere with the efficient management of a Board and is against the principle of electing a new Board every third year or fourth year If one Board is allowed to tie down the financial hand of all future Boards, where is the necessity of having a new Board few years after ?

In the opinion of the mover a lease for a term not exceeding three years will be best suited to the legitimate interest of District Boards and ferry farmers alike

further to Amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, in the manner hereinafter appearing, (VIII of 1885)

AND WHEREAS the previous sanction of the Governor General has been obtained under sub section (3) of section 80A of the Government of India Act to the passing of this Act, (5 & 6 Geo V c 61, 6 & 7 Geo V c 37, 9 & 10 Geo V c 101)

It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called the Bengal Tenancy (Amendment) Act, 1934

Amendment of section 23 of Act VIII of 1885

2 To section 23 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), the following explanation shall be added, namely —

"Explanation—Erection of a mosque, temple, church or any other place of private or public worship, whether of masonry, bricks, stone or any other material whatsoever, shall not be deemed to render the land unfit for the purposes of the tenancy"

Amendment of section 44

3 In section 44 of the said Act after clause (b), the following proviso shall be inserted, namely —

"Provided that the erection of a mosque, temple, church or any other place of private or public worship, whether of masonry, bricks, stone or any other material whatsoever, shall not be deemed to render the land unfit for the purposes of the tenancy"

Amendment of section 48C

4 In section 48C of the said Act after clause (b), the following proviso shall be inserted, namely —

"Provided that the erection of a mosque, temple, church or any other place of private or public worship, whether of masonry, bricks, stone or any other material whatsoever, shall not be deemed to render the land unfit for the purposes of the tenancy"

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In the case of Srish Chandra Ganguly vs Essom Mussalli and others, reported in 38 C W N, page 93, the Calcutta High Court has held that the erection of a mosque or any other place of public worship in a plot of land comprised in an agricultural holding is a misuse of the land and that in such a case the landlord is entitled to have a decree for ejectment under section 155 of the Bengal Tenancy Act

Right of worship is an elementary right of man Erection of a place of worship is only a corollary to that right It is deplorable if certain provisions in the Bengal Tenancy Act admit of interpretation that militates against this elementary principle Such provisions require immediate change The proposals in this Bill are formulated with a view to remove any doubt about this primary right of the Bengal tenant further to amend the Bengal Medical Act, VI of 1914.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bengal Medical Act VI of 1914, for the purposes hereinafter appearing;

AND WHEREAS the previous sanction of the Governor General has been obtained under sub-section (3) of section 80A of the Government of India Act to the passing of this Act;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

5 & 6 Geo. V, c. 61, 6 & 7, Geo. V, c. 37, 9 & 10, Geo. V, c. 101.

Preliminary.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (a) This Act may be called the Bengal Medical (Amendment) Act, 1934.

(b) It shall extend to the whole of Bengal.

(c) It shall come into force immediately.

Amendment of section 17.

2. (i) In section 17 insert the following as the first proviso, viz.—

"(1) Provided that the Governor in Council may after consulting the Medical Council permit the registration of—

(a) any person who possesses a diploma or a certificate of any medical institution and was practising as a medical practitioner on the date when the Act came into force; and

(b) any person who has obtained proper training in any medical institution and joined the medical profession before the 5th September, 1933."

(ii) In proviso to section 17 between the word "Provided" and the words "that the Council may," the word "also" shall be inserted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

From some time past it has been felt that the provisions of the Bengal Medical Act, 1914, are causing much hardship to a large number of persons who, though properly trained and possessed of degrees, diplomas, certificates, etc, from sources other than those recognised by the authorities and though they had been actually practising Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery from before 1914, cannot get themselves registered and thus become qualified medical practitioners Practitioners with similar qualification in other provinces, viz, Bombay, the Punjab, the United Provinces, Burma, etc, have been given the privilege of registration long ago either by amendments of the Acts of the respective provinces or by Government notification In Bengal nothing in this direction has been done up to date These practitioners of Bengal have therefore formed themselves into a corporate body under the name and style of the Bengal Medical Union and have been making representations which should not be ignored altogether The redress sought for may be given by a simple amendment of the Bengal Medical Act and it is the object of the present Bill to make the amendment

The Bengal Medical Act, 1914, in seeking to give protection to the public against quacks, omitted to make provision for the safety of those doctors who had obtained diplomas and certificates from various well organised and efficient medical institutions before the passing of the Act, who had been practising with ability and reputation for a long time and who could by no stretch of language be called quacks Yet, in the result these able, experienced and well reputed doctors have been classed among the quacks Many of them have been thrown out of employ from Hospitals, Tea Gardens, Ships, Steamers, etc, debarred from granting certificates of birth, death, or of illness and handicapped in many other ways Their difficulties increased when the Poisons Act XII of 1919 came into force and prohibited them from procuring for their patients, the requisite drugs included in the schedule of poisons The transitory provision by Government for an examination of these doctors by the State Medical Faculty was in force only for two years from the passing of the Bengal Medical Act, 1914 The time was too short for the majority to avail themselves of the concession, and moreover a good many did not even get the necessary information within the period Such people are now on the brink of starvation Many of them have outgrown the age at which a change of avocation is possible, and for obvious reasons, a fresh examination also is out of the question The proposed proviso (1) (a) of the Bill is intended to meet the cause of the people

The case of those who have obtained proper training in unrecognised medical institutions since 1914 stands on the same footing Several unregistered doctors are serving in Tea Garden, Coal Mines, etc, and they have been highly spoken of by their superior highly qualified Indian and European Medical Officers There are many who have been practising with greater reputation than their registered brethern of the profession in the rural areas Some of these non recognised institutions have since been recognised, but the students who completed their course therein and began to practise before such recognition have been left in the lurch We therefore find good doctors trained at the same institution, one set of whom, —the older and more experienced set,—all unqualified for want of registration, while another set all qualified by registration It is equitable under the circumstances to give such students at least one chance of being qualified Hence the necessity for proviso (1) (b)

Application for review

9 In sub section (2) of section 148 the words "or after the expiration of one month from the date of service of the first notice of demand for payment at the rate" shall be omitted

Officer may break open door

10 For the word "reasonable" in the proviso of section 158 the words "one hour's" shall be substituted

Amendment of section 165

11 The provisos of section 165 shall be deleted

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1 Practical difficulties are being experienced regarding some sections of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1932, which are now necessary to be amended as per reasons noted below —

2 (a) It has been contested in the election suits in connection with the last election of the Commissioners of the Dacca Municipality that many men having academical qualifications were enlisted as voters though actually they did not live there but at the time of election voted The substitution of the word "occupy" will remove the above difficulty to some extent and this was the provision of the old rules also

(b) This suggestion is made to avoid the vague meaning of the word "member" which may include sons and grandsons, nephews, etc , of a joint family

3 The outgoing Chairman of the Dacca Municipality gave notice for election of Chairman only under section 45 (1) but under section 59 (2) the election of both Chairman and Vice Chairman shall be made at the first meeting There was great controversy over the matter This suggestion is made to make it consistent with section 59 (2) and to avoid the ambiguity

4 This is suggested so that the Municipal Commissioners may not pass any illegal resolution which according to the present wording of the section the Chairman will be bound to carry out

5 This suggestion is made to make it consistent with the existing Government rules for the election of Chairman and Vice Chairman

6 If this is not done in big Municipalities like Howrah, Dacca and Chittagong innumerable urgent works will have to be detained for sanction of the meeting and acceptance of tenders at the meeting So for the facility of work this suggestion is made

7 This is suggested to give the actual figures of receipt and expenditure for nine months (i e , three complete quarters) This was the provision of the old Act also

8 (a) The existing sub section is a dangerous one Any case already decided by a sub-committee, can be open to reassessment by the Chairman of the Municipality The insertion of words "through mistake, oversight or fraud" has been suggested to make it consistent with section 108 of the Old Act of 1884

(b) The suggestion is made to expedite the progress of the work otherwise there will be unnecessary delay

9 A notice under section 147 (2) is quite enough for the party to file objection This provision is redundant

10 The word "reasonable" is a vague one To avoid dispute and litigation, a definite hour should be mentioned

11 The words "of any movable property belonging to any other person" in section 156 will have no meaning if the provisos are retained Moreover, this will remove difficulty in realising taxes, particularly from the female owners of a rented holding whose whereabouts are unknown and whose movable property is not sufficient to cover the taxes due This suggestion is made to make it consistent with section 156

PART IV

Bills introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council, Reports of Select Committees presented or to be presented to that Council, and Bills published before introduction in that Council.

BENGAL LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION

No 410L C —21st January, 1935 —The following report of the Select Committee on the Estates Partition (Amendment) Bill, 1933, with the Bill as amended by the Committee, is hereby published for general information

Report of the Select Committee on the Estates Partition (Amendment) Bill, 1933.

We, the members of the Select Committee of the Bengal Legislative Council to which the Estates Partition (Amendment) Bill, 1933, was referred by a motion carried in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 14th December, 1934, have the honour to submit this our report with the Bill, annexed

All matter recommended to be omitted by the Select Committee has been printed in italics and enclosed in square brackets and all new matter recommended to be inserted has been underlined

2 The Bill was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 31st August, 1933

3 We do not consider that the Bill requires republication

4 The Committee met on the 18th December, 1934, and concluded its sitting on that day

5 The changes recommended in the Bill are as follow —

Long Title and Preamble.—We have omitted the word "further" in the Long Title and Preamble as being incorrect

We have corrected a clerical error by the substitution of the word "appearing" for "reappearing "

Clause 1.—We have recommended the substitution of the figures "1935" for the figures "1933" as the Bill will probably be passed in the year 1935

Clause 2.- We have recommended the omission of this clause as being unnecessary

Clause 3.—The main object of the Bill is to allow rent-free lands to be partitioned, without the consent of all the proprietors But the effect of the amendment to section 82 of the Estates Partition Act as proposed in the Bill as introduced would be to make partition of all rent free lands compulsory We consider that in actual practice it would not be found convenient to the proprietors or the tenants to partition such lands in every case and that the Collector should be given discretion to deal with such lands according to the main principles (mutatis mutandis) laid down in the Act for the partition of rent-paying lands The best method of giving such discretion to the Collector, in our opinion, is to repeal the whole of section 82 of the Act, and we have accordingly recommended the substitution of a new clause to this effect in place of clause 3 of the Bill as introduced

We recommend that the Bill, as reported on by us, be passed

CALCUTTA, THE 18TH JANUARY 1935

RESOLUTION—No 102Mne

The I S V "Manoung" with a large number of passengers and some cattle on board sank in the river Hooghly off Fuldobi on the 7th June 1934 There was considerable loss of life A Special Court of Enquiry was appointed by Government under section 33 of the Inland Steam Vessels Act, 1917, to investigate the circumstances attending the loss of this vessel The report of the Court is appended hereto

2 In the opinion of the Court, the master of the vessel, Asraf Ali, was primarily to blame for the accident and the Court recommended that the Certificate of Competency as 2nd Class Master held by him should be cancelled permanently The Court also made certain recommendations in regard to the life-saving appliances to be carried by inland steam vessels and recorded certain observations regarding the responsibility devolving upon the district board of Midnapore as lessors of the ferry service in which the vessel was employed

3 Government have considered the report of the Court and accept the finding of the Court that the serang Asraf

Ali, was primarily to blame for the disaster Orders have accordingly been passed under section 45 of the Inland Steam Vessels Act, 1917, permanently cancelling the Certificate of Competency held by the Master of the vessel

4 Government are advised that the evidence given before the Marine Court establishes a prima facie case against—

(a) the Master of the vessel of offences under section 58 of the Inland Steam Vessels Act of 1917 and sections 280, 282 and 304A of the Indian Penal Code,

(b) the owners of the vessel of offences under section 58 of the Inland Steam Vessels Act of 1917 and sections 282 and 304A of the Indian Penal Code,

(c) the booking clerk of offences under sections 282 and 304A of the Indian Penal Code

Government have accordingly directed the prosecution of the aforementioned persons

5 The Court's recommendation regarding the revision of the existing rules for the carrying of life-saving appliances is still under examination by the Principal Officer, Mercantile Marine Department, Calcutta District

6 A copy of the Court's report has been forwarded to the Local Self-Government Department of this Government and their attention has been invited to the comments recorded in answer (3) to question 12 regarding the lack of supervision on the part of the district board, Midnapore

Order —Ordered that a copy of the resolution, with a copy of the Court's report, be published in the Calcutta Gazette Ordered also that a copy of the resolution, with the Court's report, be forwarded to the Political, the Judicial and the Local Self-Government Departments of this Government, for information

Report.

This Court was appointed to enquire into the circumstances attending the sinking of the I S V "Manoung" on the 7th June last in the Hooghly off Fuldobi The Deputy Legal Remembrancer, Mr Khondkar, represented the Crown before us and Mr Hazra, Counsel, appeared for the serang and the owners of the vessel

Twenty-five witnesses were examined by Mr Khondkar and one of the owners, Mr Gaebele, was examined by Mr Hazra

The following facts are admitted by both sides The "Manoung" was an old Burma coasting vessel She was purchased by the present owners Mr Gaebele and one Mr Fernandez on 16th May 1934 She was surveyed afresh in Calcutta on 1st June 1934 and the certificate (Ex 1) was issued The owners secured a lease from the District Board, Midnapore to run the vessel as a ferry steamer from Petua Ghat to Kakdwip viâ Fuldobi The service was actually commenced from the 4th June 1934 On the 7th June, the "Manoung" left Petua Ghat at 9 30 a m, with passengers, their goods and cattle on board A station master had been appointed by Mr Gaebele for Petua Ghat This was witness No VII, Manindra Nath Datta, a callow inexperienced youth who did not know his job There was no station house either Consequently, the conductor of the "Manoung," witness No VI, Krista was entrusted with the duty of selling of tickets on board the vessel while the so-called station master, Manindra, was asked to stop unauthorised country boats from carrying passengers for hire on this route and thus poaching on the Steamer Company's monopoly The "Manoung" was an unstable boat and had a list while in motion, first on one side and then on the other All went more or less well, however, on the day of the disaster, till the vessel was a few miles (4 to 8) away from Fuldobi, when the steamer listed heavily on the port side once—never to rise again and capsized with all hands

The evidence led before us reveals two sharply divided versions of the occurrence The conflict in the evidence is on two broad points, viz, (1) the number of passengers and cattle on board and (2) the cause of the disaster

On the one hand, the Steamer Company's employees and a few of the passengers state that there were 150 to 200 passengers and 20 to 25 cattle on board The Serang Asraf Ali (witness No V) and the conductor Krista allege that they actually counted the numbers and according to them, there were actually 152 passengers and 22 cattle According to this batch of witnesses, a sudden squall of wind sprang up just before the disaster and this caused spray to come in on the starboard side of the ship According to some of the passengers, the vessel shipped some water too on this side The passengers and the cattle got panicky as a result and rushed to the port side of the vessel and in consequence the vessel capsized to port

On the other hand, a large number of passengers have deposed that the "Manoung" was grossly overloaded at Petua Ghat It was a hât day at Kakdwip and many of the passengers had a lot of luggage with them, betel leaves, cocoanuts, vegetables, ploughs, etc The vessel was practically packed to suffocation and there was hardly any standing place even on board So great was the rush that some intending passengers (variously estimated to be 15 to 150 in number) had to be left behind at Petua Ghat for want of space on board Those who succeeded in getting in complained to Krista about the overcrowding and some got nervous as the vessel listed from one side to the other and implored Krista to let them down on shore at Petua Ghat But the gangway was withdrawn and they were not allowed to get down Only one passenger, witness No XXII Ananta Pattanaik, an educated man, was successful in inducing Krista to allow him to get down Apparently, he succeeded where others failed, because he perhaps impressed Krista by being able to hold an argument with him in English As a matter of fact, witness No VI Krista admits that four passengers were actually put down as they were nervous of the list The number of passengers are estimated by this group of witnesses to be from 400 to 650 According to them, the number of cattle on board was 30 to 45 There was no squall, no spray or shipping of water and no rush of passengers from one side to the other but the ship was listing heavily from the start and it capsized and turned turtle, as it was taking a turn at the place of the disaster

Witness No XXI, Dr S N Sen, Meteorologist, proves that the self-recording anemometer at Saugor Island did not record any squall at about 12 noon on the 7th June last, the wind velocity being something like 14 miles per hour in gusts and the mean velocity being about 10 miles per hour Saugor Island is not very far from the place of disaster and consequently it is improbable that there should have been any violent squall there Dr Sen admits in cross-examination that there may have been a purely local squall at the place of disaster even reaching a velocity up to 30/35 miles per hour without the same being recorded at Saugor But as Dr Sen says a squall of this velocity would not be dangerous even to country boats and less so to a steam-launch and far less to a sea-going vessel like the "Manoung"

We have considered the two versions of the occurrence given before us very carefully and we have come to the unanimous conclusion that the version given by the employees of the Steamer Company and a few of the passengers does not represent the true state of affairs The second version is in our opinion the substantially correct one, although the witnesses to this version may have exaggerated the numbers to a certain extent Such exaggeration is after all to a certain extent but natural and does not in our opinion, discredit the witnesses

We prefer not to rely on the witnesses who prove the first version (which we may call the Steamer Company's version) for a variety of reasons The employees, viz the serang, the conductor and the so-called station master are after all highly interested witnesses They would naturally try to clear their Company of all blame in the matter and also to clear themselves of all responsibilities for the disaster As a matter of fact, we must remember that they apprehend they have legal liabilities over the affair, both civil and criminal It is human nature therefore that they should minimise the numbers as much as they dare and ascribe any other reason for the disaster but overcrowding Most of the passenger witnesses again, who support them appear to have resiled from their previous statements before the Chairman of the Local Board, Rai Bahadur Abanti Kumar Maiti (witness No XXIII), who held an enquiry into this matter under the orders of the District Magistrate of Midnapore, who is the ex-officio Chairman of the District Board We were not impressed with the rest of the witnesses of this batch either Their version really does not tally with the circumstances and probabilities of the case

As has been already mentioned, there is incontrovertible evidence that some passengers did get down at Petua on account of nervousness It could not merely be on account of the list while the ship stood at the bank This explanation by Krista does not explain the fact properly It is evident that the ship must have been uncomfortably over-crowded as witness No XXII Ananta alleges There is also reliable evidence that some intending passengers had to be left behind The only reasons for this must have been sheer want of space on board the ship Krista and the serang claim to have actually counted the number of passengers coming on board It was really the serang's duty to limit the number according to the certificate (Ex 1) Krista, however, says that the serang did not count at all As regards Krista also, it seems most unlikely that he should have done any counting Passengers came on board over a long period of time and over the gangway as well as from country boats on both sides of the ship It was practically impossible for Krista or anybody else to have kept anything like a correct estimate of the number coming on board in these circumstances Krista would have had to virtually count the passengers again at the time of issuing tickets It is too much to expect that he would do this duty twice over, specially as it was no duty of his strictly speaking We do not believe that there was any counting of passengers at all at Petua Ghat but the passengers were allowed to get on board as they liked till every bit of available space on board was completely filled up

As regards the reasons for the disaster, we are satisfied that there was no squall of any particular severity on the day and consequently no occasion for a panic amongst the passengers of the nature alleged by the serang and the other witnesses who came to support him The story of the passengers rushing from the starboard to the port side of the steamer and this fact materially contributing to the capsizing of the steamer also fails to impress us From both versions of the occurrence, it is sufficiently clear that the disaster was a very sudden one which allowed no time to anyone to behave in such panicky manner It is admitted even by the serang that there was no screaming by anybody If there had been any such panic as alleged, most certainly we would have expected a regular howl from the panic-stricken passengers even before they rushed from one side of the ship to the other This is specially so as there were quite a number of female passengers on board and even the men were just common ignorant cultivators and petty traders

On these grounds we disbelieve the version of the serang and his supporters materially The other version seems to us to be the more reasonable and probable one

We have tried to estimate the number of passengers and cattle on board The estimate given by the passengers seems to us to be unreliable guess work We are satisfied, however, that the entire space available was crowded up It appears that there was available for passengers an area of 800 square feet or so on the two decks There was an additional space of 50 square feet or so (the hatch area) and another 50 square feet or so odd spaces on board, e g, passages, alley ways, etc These latter spaces also could be and were, according to us, occupied by the passengers This gives us a total space of 900 square feet From the evidence, it appears to us that about one-third of the legitimate passenger area (i e, one-third of 800 square feet=266 square feet) were occupied by the cattle This left about 634 square feet for the passengers The certificate (Ex 1) allowed 3 square feet per passenger on smooth water This would apparently allow reasonably comfortable accommodation for the passengers It is clear to us that on this particular trip, the passengers were much more uncomfortably crowded than this allowance implies Allowing for space occupied by passengers' luggage, some of which was placed on the decks, the bulk being in the hold, we feel that 2½ square feet per passenger would be a fair and safe estimate to adopt At this rate 634 square feet would accommodate about 254 passengers In round figures, we should say therefore that there were at least 250 passengers on board As regards cattle, the estimates of the conflicting groups of witnesses are less divergent We do not therefore find that there were many more cattle beyond 22, the number admitted by the crew A very conservative estimate of the numbers would therefore be 250 for passengers and 22 for cattle

The ship was licensed to carry 133 passengers on partially smooth waters The trip in question was over partially smooth waters Krista admits it and the point was not seriously contested before us by Mr Hazra during the recording of evidence During argument, however, Mr Hazra contested the point and argued that this particular stretch of the Hooghly has not been legally declared to be partially smooth waters inasmuch as rules have not been duly published under section 74 of the Inland Steam Vessels Act, Mr Khondkar has not been able to point out in reply the exact notification in the local gazette declaring the limts of smooth and partially smooth waters on the Hooghly But he has pointed out to us these limits as prescribed in rule 19, Part V of the Bengal Government Publication with title "Manual of Requirements as to the Survey of Vessels for Passenger Certificates (Certificates of Survey) under the Inland Steam Vessels Act, 1884," at page 117 (Edition of 1911) Mr Hazra has not pointed out any other notification, rule or instruction laying down any different limits The certificate (Ex 1) uses the term "partially smooth waters" We are of the opinion that, in the circumstances, the owners and the serang were bound by these limits I may mention here that witness No VI Krista admits in his evidence that this was partially smooth water We hold therefore that the trip was in partially smooth waters and the maximum number of passengers the steamer could carry on this trip under the license was 133 If any cattle were carried, a reasonable corresponding reduction must be made in this number

We have found that 250 passengers and 22 cattle must have been carried at least on this fatal trip For 22 cattle, a reasonable reduction of 66 passengers should have been made, assuming each head of cattle to occupy as much space as 3 passengers No such reduction was made however On the other hand, as many as 250 passengers were carried The steamer accordingly carried the equivalent of 316 passengers (66+250) on board instead of 133, an excess of 183 This, in our opinion, amounted to gross overloading

We next take up the question of the causes that led to the disaster We have already discredited and disbelieved the theory put forward by the serang In our opinion three causes contributed to the disaster Firstly, the vessel was a cranky one, admittedly listing from one side to another of itself This was apparently due to an insufficiency of ballast in the hold Secondly, the vessel was badly overcrowded This resulted in making the ship more top-heavy than ever and consequently less stable Thirdly, the immediate cause which proved to be the last straw on the back of the camel was the turn that the vessel was taking at the place of the disaster The swell and the tide apparently affected the stability of the ship for the worse on the helm being put over at this particular spot and the ship capsized as a result of the cumulative effect of all these three causes

Having disposed of the two main lines of controversy in regard to this disaster, we proceed to answer the questions set before us in this enquiry —

Question 1 —When S S "Manoung" left Petua Ghat on her last voyage, was she properly manned?

Answer —Our answer to this is in the affirmative

Question 2 —Was she seaworthy and properly equipped with life-saving appliances?

Answer —She was undoubtedly seaworthy as her past services as a coasting vessel amply show

This ship carried six life-buoys Rule 24, page 57 in Part IV of Manual of Requirements cited above, lays down that there must be one life-buoy for every 25 passengers This ship was therefore properly equipped for this trip on partially smooth waters provided the maximum number of passengers 133 was adhered to But on smooth waters, the ship was entitled to carry 266 passengers under the certificate and accordingly it should really have carried 11 life-buoys Witness No IV Commander Orchard admits that the certificate of survey (Ex 1) is in this respect incorrect

Question 3 —What was the number of passengers on board?

Answer —We cannot give an exact figure in answer to this But we are of the opinion that there must have been at least 250 passengers on board

Question 4 — How many heads of cattle were on board?

Answer —As we have explained, there were at least 22 heads of cattle on board The actual number seems to have been about 25

Question 5 —Were any steps taken to ascertain that the number of passengers embarked did not exceed the number for which the vessel was certified? If so, what steps?

Answer —We do not believe any such steps were at all taken

Question 6 - What reduction was made in the number of passengers to be carried on account of cattle?

Answer —No reduction was made on this ground

Question 7 —Was there any cargo on board? If so, to what approximate amount and where stored?

Answer —There was no cargo properly speaking But there were some amount of passengers' luggages and goods Some of it was stored in the after-hold and some on the deck We are unable to form any approximate estimate of the amount thereof

Question 8 —What fuel, water and stores were on board?

Answer —The evidence on this point comes from the crew and Mr Gaebele entirely There seems to have been about 9 tons of coal, about 2 tons of water and a little stores belonging to the crew

Question 9 — To what cause or causes do you attribute the accident?

Answer —This has been discussed above at length The causes were three-fold —

(1) There was gross overcrowding

(2) The ship was cranky and unstable —apparently on account of insufficient ballast

(3) The ship was taking a turn at the spot and the tide and the swell reacted still more unfavourably on the already defective stability of the ship, thus capsizing the ship

Question 10 — Was there loss of life, and if so, to what extent?

Answer —There certainly was loss of life—and in our opinion, a considerable loss too From the legal evidence before us, we are unable to give even an approximate estimate of the number

Mr Khondkar has produced through witnesses two lists of persons alleged to have died in this disaster The first list contains 107 names and was prepared on 26th June 1934 by witness No XXIII Rai Bahadur Abanti Kumar Maiti, Chairman of the Local Board, who held an enquiry locally The second list, containing 201 names, was prepared on 5th September 1934 by witness No XXV Paresh Nath Banerji, Sub-Inspector of Police The defence naturally objected to these lists The lists are not really legally admissible and we cannot pass any opinion whatsoever on the correctness or otherwise of these lists

We get, however, from some of the witnesses that some of their relatives and acquaintances actually died as a result of this disaster Thus witness No X Rakhal Routh says four of his relatives died Witness No XI Mahendra Nath Pradhan speaks of one of his acquaintances having died Witness No XIII Gajendra Mandal says two of his relatives and four or five of his acquaintances died Witness No XXII Ananta says five of his neighbours died Assuming these men to speak of different persons, 17 persons have been proved to have died Naturally, we could not take all the evidence of this nature which might possibly have been produced on behalf of the Crown The enquiry would then have assumed unwieldy proportions Mr Khondkar on behalf of the Crown did not attempt to exhaust all such evidence quite reasonably Question 11 —Did the life-saving appliances carried by the vessel materially contribute to the saving of life? If not, have you any recommendations to make concerning life-saving appliances carried in these small vessels?

Answer —There is evidence to show that only two men were saved by one of the life-buoys The appliances therefore did not materially contribute to the saving of life

We strongly recommend that the rules providing for the carrying of life-saving appliances should be revised and strengthened The number of buoys required to be carried by these ships should be doubled The members of the Court are also agreed that there should be some form of additional buoyant life saving apparatus to be carried compulsorily by these passenger-carrying vessels All of us except one member agree that in most cases light bamboo rafts to be carried in such a manner that they would float up as soon as a ship goes down would be the most suitable and the simplest contrivance We do not, however, propose here to go into the details of the proposal, e g, specific requirements of rafts or similar contrivances for different kinds of river craft (country boats and steam-launches big and small)

Question 12—Do you attribute blame to anyone, if so, to whom and why?

Answer—(1) The serang is to blame for this disaster primarily In our opinion, he utterly failed in his duty of checking the number of passengers with a view to prevent overloading He is also to blame for persisting in starting on his voyage with an overloaded steamer The rules require that tickets are to be sold on land before a passenger is allowed to board a vessel The serang, as the master of the ship, also failed in his duty in allowing passengers to embark on the vessel without tickets having been issued to them prior to the voyage

(2) The owners of the ship are also to be blamed for failure to make proper arrangements for selling tickets on land and for controlling the number of passengers going on board, as we have seen, there was no station house built and no proper station master functioning at Petua Ghat Their conduct is also reprehensible for running a cranky ship like the S S "Manoung" without proper ballast Mr Gaebele knew of the defect but took no steps apparently for inviting expert opinion as to how to remedy the same

(3) We are also of opinion that the District Board were also hasty in giving the lease of the monopoly of the ferry to the Steamer Company without first satisfying themselves that the service would be carried on efficiently and safely The evidence of the Rai Bahadur and of Mr Gaebele makes this abundantly clear It also appears that the District Board should have set up some sort of machinery for supervising and controlling the ferry service so that efficiency and safety might be ensured It appears that there were supervisors for this duty during the time country-boats were serving the ferry, but the supervisor at Petua Ghat was discharged some time ago when a steamer service was established with S S "Mavis" doing the trip Evidently, the District Board was content to leave matters to the entire discretion of the Steamer Company This, in our opinion, amounted to shirking of responsibilities By accepting revenue from the ferry service, a moral duty and responsibility are cast on the District Board to look to the safety and comfort of the passengers They cannot get away from this responsibility by leaving everything to be done by the Steamer Company

It is not clear to us whether the District Board had a statutory duty in this regard If they had none, the law or statutory rules thereunder should be amended as found necessary in order to make the District Board responsible for seeing that conditions of the lease are followed and the passengers who pay their fare are carried reasonably, safely and comfortably across

Question 13—Should any certificate be dealt with if so, to what extent?

Answer—The serang's certificate should be cancelled permanently in view of his incompetence and neglect of duty

Assessor's opinion.

I When "Manoung" left Petua on her last trip, was she properly manned?—Yes

II Was she seaworthy and properly equipped with life-saving apparatus?—During her trip down river she was reported to be cranky She must have been underballasted The vessel carried six life-buoys instead of double the quantity

III What was the number of passengers on board?—Over two hundred

IV How many heads of cattle were on board?—Twenty-five

V Were any steps taken to ascertain that the number embarked did not exceed the number for which the vessel was certified, if so, what steps?—None

VI What reduction was made in the number of passengers to be carried on account of the cattle?—None Attendants and cattle with passengers were huddled together

VII Was there any cargo on board? If so, to what approximate amount and where stowed?—A considerable amount of passengers' luggage and merchandise was stowed on deck, but no freighted cargo in the hold

VIII What fuel, water, stores, were on board?—About 3 tons of coal in the bunker plus 5 tons of coal stowed in the forehold, as ballast, 6 small water tanks of 40 gallons, and crew's personal belongings

IX To what cause or causes do you attribute the accident?—An excessive amount of passengers on both the bridge and main decks plus cattle and implements and merchandise rendering the vessel top-heavy It has been definitely ascertained that the vessel took one roll while altering her course, with the ebb tide athwart her beam and did not recover, but capsized suddenly

X Was there any loss of life, if so, to what extent?—Yes, the number cannot be ascertained

XI Did the life-saving appliance carried by the vessel materially contribute to the saving of life? If not, have you any recommendation to make concerning life-saving appliances?—No Owing to the suddenness of the disaster neither the boats nor the life-buoys proved of any avail As this class of vessel is not obliged to carry but a limited number of life-buoys, we would recommend that the present number of buoys should be doubled and that at least two bamboo (?) rafts should be carried in the most convenient place on the main deck or roof

XII Do you attribute blame to any one? If so, to whom and why?—Yes In the first instance to the owner or manager of the company for the inadequate and careless manner that arrangements were made to embark and disembark passengers, and secondly for the gross ignorance in allowing the passengers to embark without tickets and in not having a competent supervisor or station master at Petua Ghat

The serang's certificate should be cancelled for endangering his vessel by overloading and criminal negligence

NOTIFICATION

No 1142L R —18th January 1935 —The following report of the Bengal Board of Economic Enquiry on rural indebtedness, together with connected papers, is published for general information Any public bodies or individuals who desire to make any representations regarding any of the recommendations should submit them to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department, on or before the 15th of March, 1935

O M MARTIN,
Secy to the Govt of Bengal.

Preliminary Report of the Board of Economic Enquiry on rural indebtedness.

The Board was constituted by Government Resolution of 1st December 1933 to conduct inquiries into such economic matters as might be referred to it by the Local Government and to initiate and conduct, subject to the sanction of Government, enquiries into other economic matters

2 The personnel of the Board was not finally settled till 26th February and the first meeting could not take place till 14th March In the meantime, however, the note of Government dealing with the indebtedness of the agricultural population of Bengal and discussing the broad aspects of the problem had been circulated to all members Apart from the question of reconciling the diverse reports of the Jute Committee this is the only subject which has been referred to the Board in accordance with the terms of reference

3 His Excellency Sir John Anderson was good enough to open the first meeting with a short address which was much appreciated by all the members A general discussion of the scope of the Board's activities followed and the extent to which it would be necessary for it to make inquiries on its own behalf and the agencies it could employ It was pointed out that there was a vast volume of statistical information available about the budget and economic condition of agricultural families in Bengal in settlement reports and the publications of the Government of India and the publications of the Agricultural Department of the local Government and the reports of the Banking Committee The general feeling, however, was to the effect that nothing could be done until this material had been investigated and epitomized and placed before all the members in a convenient form Arrangements must, therefore, be made for remedying the deficiencies and making supplementary inquiries It was felt that, if nothing else was necessary, local inquiries must be made as to the extent indebtedness had increased during the last three years of depression

4 A Statistical Sub-Committee was then selected to undertake these duties Another sub-committee was appointed to study the legislation which had already been undertaken or suggested in this and other provinces with a view to relieving the problems of usurious interest and growing indebtedness A third sub-committee was formed to study the constitution of the new land mortgage banks and other forms of credit societies and to make suggestions for their improvement and development. Both these sub-committees were given the task of studying the financial aspects and considering what sort of staff would be required if a scheme of debt conciliation and rural insolvency proceedings was approved in principle.

5. The Statistical Sub-Committee decided to rely in the first place on the inquiries which had been made in February to March 1934 by the Collectors in two or three villages of each circle in the Province. The information thus gathered as regards 6,359 families in sixteen districts was collated in the statistical laboratory of the Presidency College of Professor Mahalanobis, one of the members of the Board. The object of the analysis was to find out how many families there were in Bengal of the classes with which the Board was chiefly concerned, i.e., those with a stable interest in their lands who were mainly dependent on agriculture for their livelihood who could be classified as solvent, of doubtful solvency, or as insolvent. The test which it was decided to apply was that families whose debt did not exceed twice their present income after deducting the food consumed could be placed in the first class, those whose principal debt did not exceed four years' income in the second class, while those whose debts exceeded the latter figure must be regarded as insolvent. When the forms were devised however the importance of the area which each family cultivated as a prima facie indication of its ability to maintain itself in comfort in normal years and to give it reasonable prospects of a surplus wherewith to repay its debts was not realised and the forms did not lend themselves easily to this analysis. There were other defects in the forms also. From the majority of the forms as filled up it was difficult to ascertain the amount of interest that had accumulated and the actual difference between the principal indebtedness in 1928 before the depression and in 1933 after the depression. For this reason the Professor was obliged to base his statistics on the principal indebtedness, ignoring interest. As the scheme recommended by the Board is based on a general belief that the money-lenders are prepared at the present time to sacrifice the greater part of their accrued interest provided they are given sufficient assurances of the repayment of the capital, this defect is not perhaps serious. To some extent it has been neutralised by taking the income at the height of the depression for purpose of comparison with the debt.

More serious defects are the small proportion of the families in each district and therefore in the Province as a whole whose circumstances were investigated and the incurable difficulty of expecting the uneducated tenants of Bengal to remember their outgoings and incomings of three years ago or even to give accurate statements of their present debts, much less of their actual expenditure. The scientists among our members were also much impressed by Professor Bowley's report to the effect that no reliance could be placed on figures based on specimens unless those specimens were selected strictly at random. The instructions to the Circle Officers had been to select typical villages for their enquiries. When, however, the specimens represented so small a portion of the aggregate as they did in the case of these inquiries, most of us thought that the main thing was that no specimen should be abnormal or it must vitiate the results for the district, and this is all that the instruction to the Circle Officer meant in practice.

6. The tests which Professor Mahalanobis was able to apply to the statistics collated for Faridpur, the first district completed, satisfied him that the results were on the whole satisfactory. The general resemblance of the results subsequently placed before them for other districts completely satisfied the other members. The statistical committee were able to present the figures given in Appendix I as a working basis and the Board at their meeting in August accepted them and decided that no further inquiries were essential at this stage, though all additional or supplementary material available should be used for purposes of verification and comparison. Certain inquiries on a revised form were being made in certain districts. They were made under the personal supervision of Babu Nihar Chandra Chakravarty, the Board's Assistant Secretary. They were designed to remedy the defects which experience had disclosed in the previous inquiries, especially those due to varying interpretation by the inquiring officers of the rules laid down for their guidance and hence to eliminate as far as possible the personal element. The results of these supplementary enquiries are summarised in Appendix II. The summary of the results of an economic enquiry made by the Settlement Department in Rangpur is given in Appendix V.

7. On one point of particular importance the inquiries hitherto referred to threw very little light. The purpose of the debt conciliation scheme as outlined in the Government note was to relieve the agricultural debtors. Some members of the Board were inclined to believe that the scheme was almost equally of advantage to the creditors. It was one of the chief assumptions on which we were working that the money-lenders as a whole had failed to collect any interest, much less any part of the capital of their outstanding loans, during the last three years. Some of them might have sued their debtors in the civil courts, but owing to the absence of purchasers at a reasonable price execution proceedings dragged on indefinitely, and if the land was sold it was difficult to get possession or to find other cultivators to take settlement. If the number of cases in which the creditors sold up their debtors was say 5 per cent only and in 95 per cent of cases the debtors paid nothing and remained in possession of their land without any penalty, the consequence in course of time would be that the present indebtedness of the vast majority of agricultural population would be wiped out by limitation and the mahajans would lose their capital. If there was anything in this view, then legislation was as essential in the interests of the mahajans as in the interest of the debtors.

By the courtesy of the Inspector-General of Registration, all the Sub-Registrars in the Province were addressed to make particular inquiries as to the proportion of tenants with decrees recently executed against them or hanging over them, but the results have not yet come in.

8. The material which the Board has accepted may be summarised as follows:—

There are 50 lakhs of agricultural families with a permanent and transferable interest in their lands. They are mainly occupancy raiyats though some tenure-holders who cultivate part of their lands are included and some under-raiyats. Agricultural labourers and temporary under-raiyats or bargadars are excluded.

23 per cent are not in debt at all
43 per cent are in debt less than two years' income (Class A)
Total debt Rs 27 crores

16 per cent are in debt less than 4 years' income (Class B)
Total debt Rs 23 crores

The total indebtedness is in the neighbourhood of Rs 97 crores

22 per cent of the 22 lakhs of families in the second class have land less than 2 acres and 21 have more than 8 acres 21 per cent of the 8 5 lakhs of families in the third class have less than 2 acres and 11 5 more than 8 acres

9 While this information was being collected, the other sub-committees and the staff of the Board were considering the legislation and experiments that had been made in other provinces and in certain native states and seeking to find an answer to the questions put before them by Government It was realised that the problem was immense and that it did not matter for practical purposes whether 40 per cent or 70 per cent of the agricultural families were in debt or whether their average debt was Rs 50 or Rs 150 The real figures for any individual family would only be ascertained when the actual work of dealing with their debt began it then the work of conciliation could only be undertaken as an experiment and the only practical question was the extent of the experiment This was dependent not on the programme, but on the resources of Government as regards finances and staff

9A One of the questions asked in the Government note was whether the agriculturists had sufficient surplus to repay their existing debts From the figures given in Appendix I, Table 1, there is an average deficit between income and expenditure of 22 rupees In Bankura the annual deficit is as much as 83 rupees and the agriculturist spends nearly twice his income But in Chittagong there was an even heavier deficit according to the figures given by the inquiring officers in 1928 before the depression started On the other hand, in the districts where the subsequent inquiries were made which are summarised in Appendix II, a surplus is shown in all districts which goes as high as 29 rupees in Dacca in 1928 The Board are of opinion that much importance cannot be placed on the figures for income and expenditure either in 1928 or 1933 The important thing is that the average debt shown in the last column is in all cases considerably less than one year's income in 1928 Expenditure has been shown to have decreased by 40 per cent between 1928 and 1933 There is no reason why it should not decrease still further There is a possibility also that income may again approximate the figures of 1928, as the price of rice has already gone up in all districts The Board are therefore of opinion that all the families whose capital debt does not exceed twice the income of 1933 can repay their debt after the conciliation or adjustment by equated payments spread over a period of from 10 to 15 years

As regards the families in class B whose debts are between 2 and 4 years of their calculated present income, the position is not so clear, but for similar reasons the Board are of opinion that if excessive interest is ruthlessly cut down, they should be able to pay off all their debts in equated payments spread over 15—25 years In this class everything depends on the amount of land each family has and we have unfortunately not got the figures of average debt of families with 2, 4, 6, 8 acres of land, respectively The average debt of this class is 270 and the average income of all families was 218 in 1928 We see no reason to suppose therefore that all families in this class with more than 2 acres of land are not in possession of the necessary surplus It is probable that the average debt of families with between 2 and 8 acres is less rather than more than the average

The idea of the Bill which has been drafted is that an Adjustment Board should take up every case and deal with it as a whole All the debts of each family must be reported and examined and instalments for payment will then be fixed The civil courts will have no jurisdiction as regards the debtors who have come under the operation of the Act except as regards debts incurred after the award and decrees for such debts cannot be executed until the awarded debts have all been paid If the debtor fails to exercise economy and to pay off his instalments the Certificate Officer will issue certificates, and in case of repeated defaults he will sell all the land and treat the debtor as an insolvent In fixing the instalments the Board will have regard to the surplus In adjusting the debts it will be guided by amicable arrangements agreed to by a proportion of the creditors under section 12, or by reasonable offers made by the debtor or creditor under section 14 In either case it will adjust all the debts of that particular debtor and there will be no great difference of principle or system

As regards insolvents who roughly correspond with the class whose debt exceeds four years' income, there will be a difference of principle In the case of the classes previously mentioned debts will not ordinarily be reduced below the amount of the principal In the case of insolvents they will As far as we know all existing and proposed schemes for rural insolvency proceedings provide for selling up all the property of the debtors with the possible exception of their homesteads, agricultural implements, and cattle We propose to reduce the debts of the insolvent to the amount it is estimated he can pay in instalments extending up to 20 years provided he exercises rigid economy Our proposal is not so likely to cause an upheaval in agrarian societies and should not give rise to any new problems It is far kinder to the debtor because he will be left with his land and given another chance If, however, he does not take advantage of this chance and if he fails to pay the instalments which may be fixed punctually, he must be sold up ruthlessly Some of our members are of opinion that even his homestead should be liable to sale It greatly reduces the value of the land to a purchaser if part of it is occupied as a homestead by the ex-tenant There is a danger in leaving a large number of families on the land with no land of their own to cultivate It can at best lead to an extension of the system of barga cultivation, which has generally been held to have a bad economic effect on agricultural conditions Further it seems desirable to make a distinction between the fate of those debtors who are sold up as insolvents after their debt has been drastically reduced to the amount they can pay and those who have failed for perhaps no fault of their own to pay liabilities not so reduced

10 The Bill referred to above (Appendix IV) is drafted on the lines of the Central Provinces Act and the Punjab Bill Its main provisions are as follows —

(a) A Debt Adjustment Board will be constituted in as many centres as Government finds possible to receive applications both from debtors and creditors of the agricultural classes [Central Provinces Act, section 4 (1), Bill, section 3 (1)]

(b) It can dismiss any application summarily, if not it can call for detailed statements from both debtors and creditors and fix a date for hearing both parties within one month, the amount of debts not stated by the creditors will be treated as the amount admitted by the debtor The Board can extend the time for application if it sees good reason, but is not bound to do so [Central Provinces Act, section 7 (1), Bill, sections 7 (1) and 8 (2)]

(c) The Board, if the creditors and debtors to the extent of 60 per cent of the debts agree to conciliation, can settle all the debts of that debtor and the award counts as a decree of a civil court [Central Provinces Act, section 12, Bill, section 12]

(d) The Board if it thinks either debtor or creditor has made a reasonable offer can make an award for all the debts provided the amount awarded is not less than the principal of the debt, otherwise it dismisses the application [Central Provinces Act, section 15, Bill, section 14]

(e) If after an award any instalment becomes overdue, it can be recovered by certificate procedure [Central Provinces Act, section 13, Bill, section 14AA]

(f) Debts incurred after the award cannot be sued for till all the certificated debts have been realised [Bill, section 17A]

N B —It is thought that this will deter mahajans from lending more to those debtors and that by notices in union boards and sub registration offices it is possible to give sufficient publicity to the names of the people who have come under the operation of this Act

(g) Where the Board judges a tenant to be insolvent it can reduce the debt to the amount he can pay, say 75 per cent of the value of his land or assets, and fix instalments for its payment [Bill, section 14(B)]

(h) If the instalments are not paid punctually, the Board can sell up all the property except the homestead itself It will pay creditors proportionately from proceeds and release the insolvent from any further liability [Bill section 15]

(i) The civil court will have no jurisdiction while proceedings are pending before the Board and cannot interfere with their awards All the lands which are the security for the awarded debt will be attached as under section 64 Civil Procedure Code [Bill, section 7A]

(j) The Board will notify the landlords of the debtor's lands and execution of rent decrees will be postponed for six months [Bill sections 14AAA and 17A]

(k) The awards will be transferable and they can be taken over for collection by any approved credit society [Bill, section 23 (1)]

The Board are in favour of legislation on these lines being passed at the earliest possible date and there are not many provisions in the Bill on which there are great differences of opinion The exception is the question of the effect of attachment of the lands of the debtor till the award is discharged on the security of the landlord for his rent and how the payment of the current rent can be ensured As a possible means of meeting this difficulty, the proviso to section 17A has been drafted for the consideration of Government

11 The questions which have given rise to controversy and on which full agreement has not been reached are connected with the working of the proposed Act The first point on which some of the members are not convinced is whether conciliation alone without some attempt at simultaneous part payment in cash or debentures of the creditors' dues will yield results worthy of the organisation and expenditure involved. In the Government note it was suggested that unless payments in cash were arranged the creditors would have no inducement to agree to substantial reductions of their claim. All the members are in favour of Government starting land mortgage banks in every subdivision as soon as possible, but as it is regarded as an essential feature of such banks that they should not lend more than 50 per cent. of the market value of the debtor's land, it is felt that these banks will not, even if they could be established in great numbers in a short time, be of much help to the ordinary cultivator, the class which represents 70 per cent. of the rural population of Bengal. The essential feature of the existing rural co-operative banks is that each member should be security for all others and even if these banks were available in every village the scheme is too big to be worked on purely co-operative lines. If Government could see its way to raising Rs. 2 crores and distributing it like agricultural loans through its own officers in order to pay to each mahajan one out of 8 or 12 instalments of every awarded debt, the chances of the scheme being a success would be increased enormously. If Government thinks that its natural objection to take upon itself the odium of becoming the direct money-lender of the agriculturist is insuperable, it might be considered whether each union board could become a temporary bank lending money advanced by Government from a public loan. For a year after the first instalment had been advanced there would be no work to do and there would be time to get the account system in working order or to arrange for independent banks to take over the credits and liabilities. Whether any scheme is possible or not with this end in view the members who are doubtful still unhesitatingly recommend that debt conciliation and adjustment should be taken up on as wide a scale as possible. They are of opinion that the fact that the machinery of the Certificate Department will be available for realising their dues instead of the civil court and that the Certificate Officer will himself be responsible on application for taking the initiative and that the lands of the debtors will be attached all the time the instalments are being paid will be sufficient inducement, more especially perhaps to the creditors of families who are deeply in debt and from whom they cannot expect any voluntary payments. Though this is not exactly clear from the Bill some of the members contemplate that the Revenue Officer will be responsible for receiving all monies due to creditors and that the creditors will get nothing direct. This seems to be a heavy burden to put on the Revenue Officer, but it would avoid disputes and the giving of insufficient credit for payments actually made.

12. The next question was how far the working of the Act should be treated as an experiment. This is largely a matter of words because the scheme must be an experiment. It is obviously impossible to deal with the debts of 39 lakhs of families simultaneously. It has been assumed that no Board can deal with more than 600 cases a year and that it would take 680 Boards to cover the Province in three years even if then attention is confined to the 12.30 lakhs of solvent families with between 2 and 8 acres of land. (Appendix III.)

The Board contemplate that as a beginning one Board should be constituted in every Chaukidari Circle Officer's jurisdiction at once with the Circle Officer or a Munsif as President and that a second officer, preferably a junior Sub-Deputy Collector or a Settlement

Kanungo should be appointed as his executive officer and Certificate Officer. Two or three retired Government officers or non-officials would be members, and after this Board had acquired some experience each of the original members would go out with new members to work as subsidiary Boards independently. There are at present 179 Circles in Bengal and circles where there were many applications and where the work prospered would gradually be split up into two, each with its own Circle Officer and executive officer. The number of panels or subsidiary Boards in each circle would depend on the quality of the people available as members and the general progress. In order to complete the programme in three years, on an average each Board would have to be divided eventually into 6 or 7 subsidiary Boards working independently. The operation of the Act would be an experiment in the sense that its working would be constantly watched and its system varied as defects became apparent, further, considerable variations would be allowed in different areas to give an opportunity of testing various methods. But to judge the success of an experiment of this nature from the point of view of determining whether it was possible to prevent the agriculturists getting into debt again or whether in reasonable number of cases no loss at all to Government was involved would take 10 or more years. The Board are strongly of opinion that the scheme should not be treated as an experiment from this point of view, they say that similar schemes have been successful in one Indian State and that Government must act on the presumption that it will be a success because no alternative has been suggested by anybody and there is absolute agreement that the present indebtedness of the agricultural population and the inability of the mahajans to recover their full dues and to lend out more money even in urgent cases call for drastic remedies. It has been argued that as there is no other scheme to fall back on if this is a failure, it must be made a success by profiting from the mistakes and correcting the procedure, and altering the law. A set determination to proceed with the scheme in spite of failures and losses here and there will rally in its favour all workers social and political.

The Board do not, therefore, recommend that the Act should be applied only to a few districts or to one thana or subdivision even in each district.

13. It was the main recommendation of the District Administration Committee that Government should have their own resident officer in units as small as possible. It is the proposal of others including the Indian Chamber of Commerce that there should be in every group of unions resident officers to bring into co-ordination the work of the Agricultural, Industries Co-operative and other departments. The scheme of our Board would work in with all these proposals of which the object was closer touch between Government and the people in the villages. Circles would become smaller and their Circle Officer would have wider and more diverse duties. With the help of their executive officers they might revise and then maintain the record-of-rights in their circles, they would execute all certificates, inspect co-operative banks and enforce jute restriction and other schemes connected with the economical development of the villages.

14. As regards the cost of the extra staff required, it is proposed that there should be a levy of 1½ per cent in court-fee stamps on every application for adjustment and that the Circle Officer should realise all instalments and pay the creditors and that there should be a levy of 3 per cent on all sums collected and paid If the creditors eventually paid these fees it would be much cheaper than the costs they would have incurred in civil courts

15 The Bill as drafted provides for the reduction of the debts of insolvents to the amount they can pay in not more than 20 instalments If a man's property is only worth 60 per cent of his total debts, the mahajan by selling him up in the civil court would not realise as much as 60 per cent of his claims It is argued therefore that the creditors cannot lose by agreeing to such adjustment and the relief the scheme will give to such people is far more valuable than the relief solvent debtors will obtain Sir E Benthall after first being in favour of taking up the easier cases first is now of opinion that the definite objective should be to deal with the more difficult cases first The majority of the Board are not in favour of limiting the operation of the Act as drafted to any particular class of debtors either in the first stage or eventually In every area the class of cases given preferential treatment will depend on circumstances, e g , if funds were available for paying instalments, then the money available should be used to benefit as many individuals as possible and cases of indebtedness of less than Rs 200 might be taken up first If any restriction is imposed the Board suggests that no cases of indebtedness exceeding Rs 1,000 should be taken up and that families with more than 8 acres could be left out on the ground that such people could sell some of their land and look after themselves If further restriction is necessary families with less than 2 acres could be left out because it is doubtful if such families can ever support themselves on the proceeds of their land alone If their mahajans are willing to leave them alone and to get what they can gradually Government would be doing the debtors no good by interfering If they are in debt to any great extent it is impossible to prevent them becoming landless labourers sooner or later because they have no surplus wherefrom to pay interest or principal of any debt

16 One of the points raised in the Government note was the prevention of future borrowing Mr N Sarkar was very anxious that future borrowing should not be restricted too drastically A man might want to buy more land and temporary borrowings to buy seeds, etc , might be necessary in many cases The Board are of opinion that when say 6 out of 8 instalments have been paid there is no reason why the debtors should not be able to borrow again for productive purposes and they do not think that the provisions of the Bill as drafted will prevent it

On the other hand the Bill seems to go far enough in preventing further borrowing Until the awarded debt is discharged, the would-be lender will have no security except the ornaments or personal credit of his borrowers Proceedings of the magnitude contemplated cannot go on anywhere in secret and the money-lenders should not be allowed to plead ignorance if before issuing a loan they have failed to ascertain whether the borrower has taken advantage of the Act or not

17 All the members have agreed that arrear rents except those barred by limitation should be included in the certificated award and that possibly they should be given priority of payment, nearly all the members have agreed that the different tenancies of the debtor should be attached on the analogy of section 64 of the Civil Procedure Code, until the awarded debt is paid off But there are great difficulties in providing for the regular payment of current rent The award will not be of much use to the creditors if in the meantime the tenant defaults and the landlord sells the holding under the Tenancy Act But the landlords will resist the proposals vigorously if they think that their long admitted right to treat rent as a first charge is being encroached on At first it was proposed that section 168 of the Tenancy Act should apply but this merely means that if the first sale subject to the encumbrance of the awarded debts fails, another sale free of this encumbrance will take place The next proposal was that the debtors should be responsible for producing their rent receipts before the Revenue Officer each year, and that if they failed to do so he should take action under the Certificate Act, as if an instalment had not been paid The proposal in the Bill is that the landlord can bring a suit for current rent, but he must give six months' notice before proceeding to execution That would, it is thought, give time for the creditors to arrange for payment

18 During the past few years there have been combinations of raiyats not to take settlement of purchased holdings and it is well known that certificates against the members of bankrupt co-operative banks filed by a liquidator are seldom successful Past experience shows that there is a considerable danger that if defaults are common in any neighbourhood and many villagers are sold up, nobody will buy the land for fear of litigation and that the creditor, whether he be Government or a land mortgage bank or a private individual if he has to purchase, will not be able to settle the land It was suggested that in the case of sales under this Act the purchaser should acquire the land with a clear title and only be responsible for money claims as compensation to any co-sharer who declared that he was not a party to the proceedings Opinions are divided, but it seems doubtful if the general public would at present consent to any such special provision If the Collector has the power to deliver possession to the purchaser by ejecting the old tenant or his sub-lessees, pending the decision of title in a regular civil suit, it is possible that if the public approve the principles and are satisfied that the instalments fixed for payment were well within the capacity of the debtor to pay they will have no sympathy with defaulters and that the difficulty will not often arise Section 14AAA is incorporated in the Bill for the consideration of Government may suggest lines on which a solution of the difficulty may be found

19 The members are practically unanimous that interest on the awarded debt should not exceed 6 per cent Whether it will be necessary to calculate this annually and to add it to the instalments is not certain If Government or a bank advanced the amount it would be convenient if they could wait till all the instalments had been paid and then collect an extra instalment when the debtor was otherwise free from debt to cover all interest and expenses

20 When the Bill was first drafted it was assumed on the analogy of the Central Provinces Bill that all awards would be registered Most of the members are now of opinion that the registration will be unnecessarily expensive and troublesome The awards will be filed in the office of the Conciliation Board or when the Board ceases to function in the office of the Revenue Officer who will carry on the executive functions of the Board Record in this office should be given the effect of registration by the Act
